How much do our children cost? The German market for baby and children’s clothes and outfitting in numbers

Abstract:

The market for baby and children’s outfitting in Germany is quantified, both as a whole and on the level of the various product groups and distribution channels. Within the array of distribution channels, a particular focus will be on online sales, which are causing shifts in this sector as in all other market segments.